

PROFILE OF INTERNSHIPS

2008-09 Academic Year

INTERNSHIP PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Goucher has been linking liberal arts education with internships and other real-world experiences for more than 75 years.

Through our internship program, we help students explore career paths, enhance skills, and experience the world of work. Students connect classroom learning and theoretical material to practical, hands-on experience that strengthens their development and broadens their knowledge.

Goucher's Career Development Office (CDO) coordinates the college's internship program. We work closely with Goucher's academic departments—and with each individual student—to identify internship opportunities that fit each student's academic interests and career goals, to assist students in applying for internships, and to monitor students' progress throughout their internship experiences. Our goal is to empower our students to develop their own career opportunities through focused internship searches supported by the CDO.

The statistics in this Internship Profile are divided into two areas. The first, Intern Evaluations, is based on a survey that students complete at the end of their internships. It reflects students' own perspectives on their internship experiences. (Please note that not all percentages add up to 100, because students were asked to check all options that applied.)

The second section presents aggregate data for the academic year, providing a breakdown by major, class standing, location of internship, and organizational type.

Finally, we have provided a full list of all internship sites for the 2008-09 academic year. The information provided represents only students who have earned academic credit for their internship experiences.
