

Goucher College Programs in Education Standards

Knowledge, Skills and Dispositions Fostered in Students

The faculty of the Graduate Programs in Education foster in the students enrolled in the programs the knowledge, skills, and dispositions presented below. These professional commitments and dispositions form Goucher's professional standards, and are adapted and applied to every program within the Graduate Programs in Education. Additionally, they are reflected in courses within the programs.

Knowledge: We believe teachers and other professionals we prepare in each of the programs included within the Graduate Programs in Education should

1. Apply knowledge of psychological and educational theory, research, and/or philosophy related to the area of specialization or certification.
2. Demonstrate understanding and use of the types of assessments appropriate to the area of specialization or certification.
3. Identify the purpose of education in society, and be able to analyze why things happen in the educational community and/or in the political community that surrounds education.
4. Demonstrate knowledge of concepts related to diversity, and the interaction between concepts related to diversity and the area of specialization or certification.

Master of Arts in Teaching Standards

The MAT standards are considered knowledge standards within courses and become skill standards within the internship.

Planning Shows Content Knowledge and Embraces Developmental and Diverse Student Needs

1. The intern's long- and short-range plans include the voluntary state curriculum standards/content standards/IEP goals, teacher objectives, and student outcomes.
2. The intern demonstrates an understanding of the content underlying a discipline(s) and accurately plans that content (declarative and procedural knowledge).
3. The intern plans long- and short-range units/lesson that show an understanding of the developmental nature of students.
4. The intern's plans show an understanding of the diverse needs, concerns, abilities, and interests of students.

Management of Student Behavior Maximizes a Positive Learning Environment

5. Student behavior is managed so as to result in the maximum amount of time for students to engage in productive learning experiences.
6. Time is managed to allow for maximum time on successful learning experiences.
7. The intern creates an environment that invites learning.
8. In creating a climate that encourages learning, the intern demonstrates an enthusiasm about learning and sensitivity to students.
9. Diverse teaching strategies are used to help students develop positive attitudes and perceptions (DOL 1).

Instructional Practices Complement Student Needs and Encourage Problem Solving and Critical Thinking

10. Diverse teaching strategies are used to help students acquire and integrate knowledge (DOL 2) as correlated with local system curriculum or an Individual Education Program.
11. Diverse teaching strategies are used to help students extend and refine knowledge (DOL 3) as correlated with local system curriculum or an Individual Education Program.
12. Diverse teaching strategies are used to help students use and apply knowledge meaningfully (DOL 4) as correlated with local system curriculum or an Individual Education Program.
13. Diverse teaching strategies are used to help students apply productive habits of mind (DOL 5) to learn local school system curriculum or the goals and objectives of an Individual Education Program.
14. The structure of lessons is logical and coherent; lessons function as a part of a larger instructional and developmental context.

15. Appropriate materials and technologies are chosen to support student skill levels, needs, backgrounds, and interests. These materials and technologies are organized for efficient use by students and include both print and non-print resources, including computer technology and manipulatives. (At the end of the internship, Maryland Teachers Technology standards are completed.)
16. The effective intern uses a variety of strategies to accommodate and differentiate identified student needs, strengths, cultural attributes, language, and learning styles.
17. The intern demonstrates effective instruction of students with disabilities in academic and social areas. Use of appropriate motivational techniques and instructional strategies/adaptations to meet individual differences is evident.
18. Assignments are appropriate to learners, are related to a lesson's objectives, and are a productive use of the learner's time for the practice of new learning and review of previous learning. Assignments help students transfer previous knowledge to new learning.
19. The intern is skilled in the art of questioning. The intern uses different types of questions according to the purpose of instruction. Ongoing emphasis is given to questions that foster students' higher order thinking skills and extend and refine their knowledge base.

Assessments Evaluate Instruction and Student Learning

20. The evaluation of student progress is based on the objectives of instruction. The tools and techniques that the intern uses to evaluate students are appropriate to the student and the teacher objectives of instruction.
21. The intern uses the results of assessing student accomplishment of objectives, including student feedback, as a device for further planning and teaching.
22. The intern demonstrates competent development and utilization of informal assessment measurements and use of the findings to determine progress and future instruction for students.
23. The intern demonstrates competent administration of formal individual assessment measurements and/or utilization of the findings to aid in diagnosing special needs of students (special education students only).
24. The intern writes assessment reports providing background information, describing a student's current levels of functioning, and prescribing appropriate educational and behavioral interventions to address the student's needs (special education students only).
25. The intern develops realistic individual goals and objectives based on assessment information to meet the special needs of students (special education students only).

Professionalism and Interpersonal Relationships Maintained

26. The intern maintains effective communications with the home to promote positive home-school relationships.

- 27. The intern works collaboratively with his/her mentors and supervisors, as well as other professionals inside and outside the school, to develop effective partnerships.
