Voters still heavily undecided in Democratic gubernatorial primary; Senatorial primary strongly favors Cardin

Baltimore— The Goucher Poll asked Maryland residents about their opinions toward the Democrats current running for Governor of Maryland and US Senate. Goucher Poll surveyed 409 Maryland Democratic primary voters from February 12-18 and has a margin of error of +/-4.8 percent.

When asked to describe their own political ideology, 44 percent of Democratic likely voters say they are “progressive,” 43 percent say they are “moderate,” and 10 percent say they are “conservative.”

Democratic Gubernatorial Primary

Respondents were asked whether they had a favorable or unfavorable opinion of the candidates currently running in the Democratic gubernatorial primary. Majorities—in some cases large majorities—of Democratic likely voters indicated that they “don’t know” whether they viewed each candidate favorably or unfavorably.

Rushern Baker had the highest favorability rating at 30 percent. Ben Jealous and Kevin Kamenetz register a 28 percent and 22 percent favorability rating, respectively.

If the primary election were held today, 19 percent say they would vote for Rushern Baker, 12 percent say for Kevin Kamenetz, and 10 percent for Ben Jealous. Forty-seven percent say they “don’t know” what Democratic candidate they would support of the election were held today.

Education (26 percent), economy/jobs (20 percent), racial/social justice (16 percent), and healthcare (14 percent) were identified as the most important issues in determining a vote for governor among Democratic likely voters.

“Days out from the candidate filing deadline, our poll suggests that Democratic voters have yet to turn their full attention to the gubernatorial race,” said Mileah Kromer, director of the Sarah T. Hughes Field Politics Center. “With so many undecided voters, there is ample time and room for the field to shift—even dramatically. Yet, at the same time, the lesser-known candidates need to increase their name recognition soon or this primary could become a 3-way race.”

Democratic Senatorial Primary

The entry of Chelsea Manning brought an uneventful U.S. Senate race briefly into the spotlight.

Democratic voters were asked whether they had a favorable or unfavorable opinion of incumbent Ben Cardin and Chelsea Manning. Senator Cardin registered strong favorability ratings among Democratic likely voters; 64 percent hold a favorable opinion of Cardin and 15 percent hold an unfavorable opinion. Forty-four percent of Democratic likely voters were unable to gauge how they viewed Manning; 19 percent hold a favorable opinion of Manning and 37 percent hold an unfavorable opinion.

If the primary election were held today, 61 percent say they would vote for Ben Cardin and 17 percent for Chelsea Manning. Nineteen percent say they “don’t know” what Democratic candidate they would support of the election were held today.

About the Goucher Poll

The Goucher Poll is conducted under the auspices of the Sarah T. Hughes Field Politics Center at Goucher College. Directed by Dr. Mileah Kromer, the Goucher Poll conducts surveys on public policy, economic, and social issues in Maryland.

Goucher College supports the Goucher Poll as part of its mission to instill in its students a sense of community where discourse is valued and practiced. The Goucher Poll is fully funded by the Sarah T. Hughes Field Politics Center endowment and does not take additional funding from outside sources. The Goucher Poll seeks to improve public discourse in Maryland by providing neutral, nonbiased, and independent information on citizen perceptions and opinions. The data collected by the Goucher Poll are used to support faculty and student research.

The Sarah T. Hughes Field Politics Center is a member of the Association of Academic Survey Research Organizations and the American Association for Public Opinion Research Transparency Initiative.

Survey Methodology

To ensure all Maryland residents are represented, the Goucher Poll is conducted using random digit dialing (RDD) of a county-level stratified random sample using landline and cellular telephone numbers. The sample of telephone numbers for the survey is obtained from Survey Sampling International, LLC (<http://www.surveysampling.com/>).

The survey was conducted Monday, February 12 to Sunday, February 18, 2018. During this time, interviews were conducted 1:00pm to 9:00pm on Monday to Friday and 1:00pm to 7:00pm on Saturday. The Goucher Poll uses Voxco Computer-Assisted Telephone Interviewing (CATI) software to administer its surveys. Interviews were conducted by a staff of professionally trained, paid, student interviewers.

Interviewers attempted to reach respondents with working phone numbers a maximum of five times. Only Maryland adults—residents aged 18 years or older—were eligible to participate. Interviews were not conducted with adults who were reached at business or work numbers. Seventy-six percent of the interviews were conducted on a cell phone, and 24 percent were conducted on a landline.

Interviews for this survey were completed with 952 Maryland residents from which 409 were identified as likely Democratic voters. For a sample size of 409, there is a 95 percent probability the survey results have a plus or minus 4.8 percentage point sampling error from the actual population distribution for any given survey question. Margins of error are higher for subsamples.

In addition to sampling error, all surveys are subject to sources of non-sampling error including question wording effects, question order effects, and non-response bias. Margin of error is not adjusted for design effects. Data is weighted by gender, age, race, and region of the state to represent adult population targets established by the American Community Survey (ACS).

Survey Question Design

The Goucher Poll provides the questions as worded and the order in which they are administered to respondents.

BRACKETED ITEMS []: Items and statements in brackets are rotated to ensure respondents do not receive a set order of response options presented to them, which maintains question construction integrity by avoiding respondent agreement based on question composition.

Example: [agree or disagree] or [disagree or agree]

PROBE (p): Some questions contain a “probe” maneuver to determine a respondent’s intensity of opinion/perspective. Probe techniques used in this questionnaire mainly consist of asking a respondent if his or her response is more intense than initially provided.

Example: Do you have a [favorable or unfavorable] opinion of President Obama?

PROBE: Would you say very favorable/unfavorable?

OPEN-ENDED: No response options are provided for an open-ended question, i.e., it is entirely up to the respondent to provide the response information. Any response options provided to the interviewer are not read to respondent; they are only used to help reduce interviewer error and time in coding the response.

VOLUNTEER (v): Volunteer responses means the interviewer did not offer that response option in the question as read to the interviewer. Interviewers are instructed not to offer “don’t know” or “refused” or “some other opinion” to the respondent, but the respondent is free to volunteer that information for the interviewer to record.
