

What if my visa is expired and I am traveling home and intend to return for the next semester?

You must have an unexpired visa in order to travel outside the US and re-enter. Therefore, you must go through the same procedures as completed initially in order to obtain a new visa in your passport. Each country has different requirements; however, in general, you should be prepared with the following:

- Valid passport
- Nonimmigrant visa application, Form DS-160
- Application fee payment receipt
- Photo
- Form I-20
- Financial support documents
- Proof of attendance at the school (transcripts, registration for the following semester, admission letter, etc.)
- Receipt for SEVIS I-901
- Proof of your intention to depart the US upon completion of your studies and any applicable optional practical training.

Please visit <http://travel.state.gov/visa/> for more information on visa application procedures, interview appointment policies, visa wait times and additional visa issues.

What if my visa is not expired, but my previous school is indicated on my visa?

If you have transferred schools since your visa was initially issued and you have been maintaining F-1 status, you do not need to renew your visa if it has not expired. You should, however, bring copies of all previously issued I-20's to show your complete history.

I am from a visa waiver country; do I need to apply for an F-1 student visa?

Yes, the visa waiver applies to visits as tourists only. If your purpose for entry to the US is to be a student, then you must apply for an F-1 visa. Those who enter on the visa waiver program are not able to study other than on a short-term avocational basis. They cannot apply for a change of status or extend their stay.

What is automatic visa revalidation and can I take advantage?

Automatic visa revalidation may apply for students holding expired nonimmigrant visas who seek to return to the US after brief travel to Canada, Mexico, or an adjacent island for thirty days or less. (Please see the Associate Director for International Students for a complete list of adjacent islands.)

Caution: Students may not use automatic visa revalidation if they have applied for a new visa which has not yet been issued or if the application for a new visa was denied.

What if my passport is expired, but I have a valid F-1 visa in it?

If you have a valid visa in your expired passport, do not remove it from your expired passport. You may use your valid visa in your expired passport along with a new valid passport for travel and admission to the United States.